PRIVATE LOAN INSTRUCTION SHEET

Private student loans are also known as Alternative Loans. Private loans tend to cost more than the Stafford loans offered by the Federal government. Private loans help bridge the gap between the actual cost of attendance/fees and limited amount of federal student loans. You may start the application process for 2013/2014 after August 1st, 2013.

Program Description

Private student loans (also known as Alternative Loans) can help you pay for school expenses not covered by scholarships, grants or other forms of financial aid. Private loans often provide critical assistance when federal loans, grants and other forms of financial aid are not enough to cover the full cost of your education. Eligibility and interest rates vary from lender to lender.

Eligibility

1. Must complete a FAFSA for 2012/2013.
2. Enrollment eligibility terms stipulated by lender.
3. Meet satisfactory academic progress standards as defined at Cal Poly Pomona.
4. Must be at least 18 years old.
5. Have established credit history.
6. International students will need a U.S. co-signer.

Maximum Annual Amount

Total cost of attendance minus any other financial aid received.

Minimum Annual Amount

Varies from Lender to Lender

Minimum Monthly Payment

Varies based on outstanding principle balance

Repayment

Repayment terms vary with each lender. Some lenders require the first payment immediately at disbursement, while other lenders offer a six-month grace period after graduation, separation from school, or dropping below half-time enrollment status. The length of the repayment terms may vary depending on the lender and the amount borrowed.

Fees

1. Origination fee 0%
2. Guarantee fee 0%

Interest Rate

Lenders use a variety of different financial indexes to calculate the interest rate on private loans. These indexes are tied to economic factors that make the interest rate on private loans a variable rate. The two most common indexes used are LIBOR and Prime Rate. LIBOR has been historically the Prime Rate. Since lenders compute the interest rate differently, check with each lender to determine how the interest rate is calculated and to find the most current interest rate.

Extended University Student Loans

There are no Private Loans available to assist students that are attending Extended University without being admitted to the regular Cal Poly Campus. When applying for a Private Loan through a Lending Institution, please make sure to notify lender that the school will not certify this type of loan. The application process is initiated by the student with the lender and funds are disbursed from the lender directly to the student. Cal Poly Pomona will not certify any information for the processing of these loans.

3. You may start applying for this private loan after August 1, 2013 to avoid having your credit approval from expiring since credit is only good for 120 days from date that loan was approved.
4. The Office of Financial Aid & Scholarships will verify your eligibility and electronically send the verification to the Lender. Funds will be disbursed electronically to Cal Poly Pomona, on a quarterly basis.

Determining your Loan Amount

To determine how much you can borrow, take the annual cost of attendance at Cal Poly Pomona and subtract from the amount of Financial Aid you have been awarded. The result is the amount of your Private loan eligibility.
