

Anthropology

Program and Student Learning Outcome

(Updated Fall 2023)

Program Learning Outcome	Student Learning Outcome
PO #1 Students will apply the scientific method, either by descriptive, qualitative, or quantitative means in anthropological research design and study	SLO 1a: Students will generate hypotheses or research questions
	SLO 1b: Students will identify appropriate anthropological methods in research design
	SLO 1c: Students will implement multiple anthropological methods in research study
PO #2 Students will assess biological, cultural, and archaeological aspects of human existence using a holistic perspective	SLO 2a: Students will analyze different types of anthropological data
	SLO 2b: Students will integrate biological, cultural, linguistic, and archaeological evidence into their understanding of human existence
PO #3 Students will connect structures of power with diverse cultural values	SLO 3a: Students will identify cultural values in different times
	SLO 3b: Students will illustrate the relationship between structures of power and diverse cultural values
PO #4 Students will apply anthropological theories to real life examples	SLO 4a: Students will discuss anthropological theories
	SLO 4b: Students will evaluate data using theoretical principles from scholarly literature
PO #5 Students will communicate how anthropological concepts help us understand the world	SLO 5a: Students will summarize relevant social science and anthropological literature for diverse audiences
	SLO 5b: Students will explain the broader impacts of anthropological research beyond the classroom