Kellogg Honors College Capstone Project

Summary: In the media and often even on college campuses, sororities continue to be scrutinized, with negative stereotypes about Greek life highlighted, while accomplishments and the benefits of being members of these organizations go widely unrecognized and unreported. The purpose of this research project is to inform about the goals and missions of the NPC and the sororities, which are a part of the NPC, and to identify the benefits gained by being a member of these organizations both during one's undergraduate education, and in life after college. The benefits of this study include: differentiating the NPC organizations from other Greek organizations in order to showcase, to those not involved in Greek Life, the benefits that the NPC provides to its organizations and its members, and to help identify areas of improvement, on our campus, for our Panhellenic community.
