

DAVE LEFNER

Ink Juror Selection Criteria

"Being an Art juror for a themed exhibition is always an exciting process for me because I feel like I get the first opportunity to see and recognize something truly original. In this case, I get to witness how each individual artist has a completely different interpretation of what "Type" means to them, all within the parameters of Ink and/or Clay. For me, personally, I like to see a weighted balance between theme and medium; where concept and execution are both integral to the finished piece."
