1. Naming Policy

The "naming" of any facility, program, or collection at the university is governed by the current CSU Policy Number: 15501.00 Title: "Naming of California State University Facilities and Properties," CSU Policy Number: 15502.00 Policy Title: "Naming of California State University Schools, Colleges, Programs and Other Academic and Non-Academic Units," and the "Policy on Naming California State University Facilities and Properties" spelled out in the CSU Executive Order No. 713, as well as any supplemental policy in place at the university. Further, the following naming guidelines are derived from the above-mentioned policies and the Chancellors Office Valuation Guidelines and Naming Procedures.

Under CSU Executive Order No. 713, "the campus president has the authority to name individual rooms, limited areas, and individual items or features within buildings, individual landscape items or features, limited outdoor areas, and other minor properties. The president is also delegated authority to approve temporary naming’s for a facility or property, reflecting natural or geographic features, or reflecting a traditional theme of a university. Each proposal for naming a CSU facility or property shall be considered on its own merits. In all cases, due diligence must be performed and observed to ensure that names given are appropriate to the University."

The Naming Committee will review all requests before making recommendations to the University President for final approval.

The committee will consist of the following representatives:

1. Vice President for University Advancement – Chair
2. Vice President for Administrative Affairs or designee
3. Associate Vice President for Development or designee
4. Director of Donor Relations & Stewardship or designee
5. College Dean or Vice President of Division of area being named or designee

In the case of naming where Board of Trustees of the California State University is required, such as facilities or programs, the Academic Senate will need to vote on the naming and verification will be included in the packet forwarded to the Chancellors Office.
While the decision to name a structure or program is subject to many considerations, the following are recommended for gift naming opportunities at Cal Poly Pomona. No formal proposals or commitments may be made to donors without prior review and agreement of the University President via the Vice President for Advancement.

2. Special Consideration: Facilities
All naming agreements associated with equipment or facilities must be for the useful life of the room/equipment/facility or for a period of years.

Useful life is determined by the university. Typically, the shell of a building may last for 75 years or more, but the interior and the building systems (electrical, heating/ventilation) can be expected to be renovated at least twice if not more times depending on the needs of the facility and/or programs housed. When naming an interior room of a building, the naming is only good for the useful life of that room rather than the building facility as a whole as the shell may last longer than the useful life of the room due to expected interior renovation needs.

Gift levels for naming
1. Existing facilities: Consideration will be made on a case-by-case basis. The present cash value should equal the cost of remodeling or 30% the cost of the historical value of the building, whichever is greater.

2. New (combined state and private funding): Consideration will be made on a case-by-case basis. The funding preference is 50% of costs, but a minimum consideration starts at 30% of the cost of the building or structure. If a potential gift is less than 50%, other major donors will be given the option to donate more than a 30%.

3. New (totally privately funded at 100% of costs or concurrence): At least fifty percent or more of the construction costs of the building or area and, where possible, additional endowment support to defray operation cost is requested to name capital projects that are privately funded. As with existing facilities, it is expected that gifts resulting in a named building will have a relationship to the academic unit(s)/programs within that building. Ordinarily, deferred gift commitments will not be counted toward the 50% minimum, unless full funding is available for construction.

4. Endowing an entire college or program: Consideration will be made on a case-by-case basis, but the endowment level needs to be sufficient to generate income at a significant percentage (at least 10%) of the annual operating budget using a calculation of 4% earnings per year.

   a. The naming of a college, department, or unit (e.g., The Collins College of Hospitality Management) provides one of the ultimate vehicles for assuring long-term program prestige and excellence. Endowment of such magnitude should enable the recipient unit to achieve and sustain national stature through recruitment of outstanding faculty and students. Although the amount needed is negotiable, the ideal endowment gift should produce sufficient income to cover a significant percent of the college, department, or other unit's annual budget.

   b. Before any negotiations are made with a potential donor, the dean of the prospective area must consult with and receive the approval of the president, provost, and university advancement vice president.
5. Naming sub-units (rooms/laboratories/equipment): Consideration is made on a case-by-case basis using square footage, room type (lab/classroom) and existing named like spaces. Minimum gift levels will also take into consideration the visibility of the facility, the nature of the activity housed in the named area, and other relevant factors.

6. Outdoor features/fixtures/memorial items: Donor must cover total direct costs and as required, an endowment for upkeep. Numerous opportunities exist to name places and landmarks in memory of family or friends or in honor of donors who make substantial contributions toward landscape improvements that would enhance the beauty and utility of the campus. Naming opportunities for physical memorials are determined on a case-by-case basis and may require additional approvals. If no endowment is established to maintain the outdoor feature(fixture), the naming agreement(s) must be for the useful life or for a specified period of years. All inquiries about establishing physical memorials need to be directed to the Director of Donor Relations. Attempts will be made to meet the donor’s preference, but this will be done after reviewing the request with the Naming Committee in order to determine; a) the appropriateness of the memorial, i.e., the impact the memorialized has on the University, length of service, etc.; and b) the gift amount required to establish the physical memorial proposed location and type of memorial in fitting with the University’s existing landscaping. Once a memorial has been approved, the Director of Donor Relations will work with the donor and/or college on text and design for the plaque/signage, will place the order, and oversee installation. All contributions must be received prior to beginning construction.

7. Gifts of real property/collections
Outright gifts of real property or collections may carry the name of the donors provided adequate funds are available for space and operational needs. An outright gift of land that is accepted by the university and held for research, extension, or instruction purposes may be named in honor of the donor.
All naming agreements associated with land or property must be for the useful life of the land or property or for a period of years.

3. Minimum Gift Level Policy
In order to meet the terms of endowed funds and the needs of the campus, the following minimum amounts are required to establish a named endowment or named opportunity. If an endowment or named opportunity is to be set-up at an amount lower than any listed below, it requires approval by the Vice President of Advancement before any agreements are signed or gifts are made.

4. Scholarship Gifts to Department-Specific Areas
Donors wishing to support students within a specific college, major or programs may direct gifts to the general scholarship funds that have been established for departments and programs to accept scholarship gifts online at: CPP Giving. Additionally, donors who wish to support the underrepresented students from across the University may direct gifts of any amount to the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Scholarship Fund.

Each College and academic department are responsible for administering their department-named scholarship funds by using the university’s central scholarship application (Bronco Scholarship Application).

Additionally, each College and most departments have general scholarship accounts to process donations under $10,000 that do not require a separate named account.

Colleges and departments are responsible for administering these scholarship funds with a goal of awarding all available funds within that account during the university’s scholarship timeline. The objective is to award all gifts received from July through February during the spring semester selection process so that they can be awarded to the student in the fall semester.

5. Scholarship Restrictions and CA Proposition 209
Cal Poly Pomona is committed to awarding scholarships in an objective, transparent and equitable manner that supports our student’s success. Aligning with CSU Scholarship Administration Guidelines and California Proposition 209, scholarship criteria should not include race, gender, color, ethnicity, or national origin.

Questions regarding interpretation of criteria will be directed to the university’s gift acceptance committee and/or legal counsel. In consultation with the CEO of the CPP Philanthropic Foundation, requests for new accounts that require US Citizenship status for recipients must be documented as an exception and approved by the university’s gift acceptance committee. This policy is subject to change in the future based on changes to California law.

Proposition 209 policy: CSU Proposition 209 Policy

6. Memorial and Honorary Gift Policy
Making a gift in memory or in honor of someone creates a legacy. For memorial and honorary gifts that do not meet the minimum to be establish a named fund, gifts can be made to a General Area of Greatest Need or Scholarship fund in a college, department, or unit at the university. If donations total 33% of annual tuition or more the college or unit may give one general scholarship in the decedent’s name.

For memorial gifts in honor of alumni and students that do not meet the minimum to establish a named fund, gifts can be made to the Alumni Association’s Area of Greatest Need fund. If donations total 33% of annual tuition or more the Alumni Association may give one general scholarship in the decedent’s name.
7. Future Considerations
If future circumstances of the named purpose or program should change or conflict with state law or policies of the University, funds may be redirected under the authority of the University President.

If at any time circumstances change substantially so that the continued use of the Donor name may compromise the public trust, the University and/or Foundation may consult or seek advice from counsel regarding future action and potential removal/non-use of name.
