1. CFA's new report

CFA released a new report, "Equity, Interrupted: How California Is Cheating Its Future" which details the systemic and steady disinvestment in the CSU over the past 30 years as the student body has grown increasingly diverse.

The report (PDF format) can be downloaded at http://www.calfac.org/sites/main/files/file-attachments/equity_interrupted_1.12.2017.pdf

2. Pomona Chapter CFA Newsletter

The Issue 2 of winter 2017 CFA newsletter is posted at <http://www.cpp.edu/~cfa/Winter2017-2.pdf>. Please check it over. We have included information about faculty rights, lecturer tips and more in the Newsletter.

3. Other

- Please read an article of Faculty Rights related to Executive Order 1097, the CSU protects students from discrimination, harassment and retaliation, sexual misconduct, dating and domestic violence, and stalking. - CFA has set up a website to report instances of hate speech and crimes at <http://www.calfac.org/form/report-hate-speech-incidents>.
- Policy No: 1416, 'Taping of Faculty Lectures'

Disabled students may tape faculty lectures of any classroom presentation. If students identify themselves as disabled and ask permission to tape lectures or classroom presentations, the instructor may ask them to sign a "limited release statement" that the tapes of lectures would be used only by the student and only for class purposes.

For all other students, instructors may, but are not required to, permit taping, either audio or video, of their lectures or any classroom presentation. In the case of visiting or guest lecturers, the discretion rests with the person actually making the presentation.

If instructors grant permission they should do so in writing, specifying the limitations they may wish to place upon the use and farther distribution of the taped material.
