PLS PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

Explain how the course meets the description of the GE SubArea (s). Please select appropriate outcomes according to the GE Area/SLO mapping.

The course, its contents and methods of assessment meet the GE SLO Assessment for Area D4 in the following ways

1a Write effectively: Students submit a debate paper using materials from journals, texts and screened online resources. These materials are employed to answer exam questions on application of theoretical models to specific public policy concerns.

1b Speake effecively, students will make presentations and will have plenty of opportunity to participate in class discussion.

1c Find evaluate use and share information. Students submit a debate paper using online scholarly articles from the disciplines of economics and political sciences. These sources may be supplemented with information from popular journals, scholars' blogs and videos. However, all sources are cited using primarily APA citation format.

1d Construct agreements based on sound evidence and reasoning

Students will be introduced to specific free market models and theories and perspectives that identify the range of perspectives from classical conservatism to democratic socialism. These models are then assessed based on a variety of publicly available data resources from: Department of Labor, Pew/ANES surveys, Presidential Economic Advisory Council, and audits by the Congressional Budget Office.

2b Analyze major philosophic, historic, theories, empirical evidence

Using an anthology of political perspectives and fundamental classical economic theories of market and market failures students identify areas of agreement and disparity with regard to contemporary public policy concerns.

3a Analyze the historical development of diverse cultures and the role they play in shaping core institutions and practices of individuals and societies.

student study different societies and how the development of their political and cultural system are impacted by and influences the development of their economy and economic institutions.

3b Analyze value systems and ethics to addressing local, state, national and global issues

The students will use the theories and models from economic and political science to explore the ethical as well as practical challenges and opportunities for public engagement in addressing policy issues..

Describe how these outcomes relate to the associated GE Learning Outcomes listed below.*

V. Minimum Student Material

List any materials, supplies, equipment, etc., which students must provide, such as notebooks, computers, internet access, special clothing or uniforms, safety equipment, lockers, sports equipment, etc. Note that materials that require the assessment of a fee may not be included unless the fee has been approved according to University procedures.

Minimum
Student Material

Textbooks, notebooks, and access to library and computer research resources

VI. Minimum College Facilities

List the university facilities/equipment that will be required in order to offer this class, such as gymnastic equipment, special classroom, technological equipment, laboratories, etc.

Minimum College Facilities

Classroom for lecture/discussion with audio-visual and Internet capabilities.

VII. Course Outline

Describe specifically what will be included in the course content. This should not be a repetition of the course description but an expansion that provides information on specific material to be included in the class, e.g. lecture topics, skills to be taught, etc. This should not be a week-by-week guide unless all instructors are expected to follow that schedule.

Course Outline*

Modern Market Capitalism

Assumptions of how individuals operate in a market and its parallels with classical liberal political philosophy.

Early signs of trouble and public policies to correct market failures (e.g. Sherman Anti Trust and Clayton, government regulation, and policy)

B. Origins of a Federal Agenda

Great Depression and FDR Administration. Introduction of a social contract and safety net for persons adversely affected by market fluctuations. The dichotomy of labor versus business.

War on Poverty –Kennedy and Johnson. Expansion of social contract and policies to address economic opportunities and social justice. The division between white and persons of color.

21st Century Policies including health care and banking regulatory policies

A.

Philosophical and Ideological Divides in Policy Process

Age of Reason and classical liberalism and conservatism

Critiques of liberalism, conservatism and socialism in postmodern thought

Assessment of policy options from perspective of political perspectives

The role of government in a market based economy.

Retreat and Retrenchment

Critique of the chronic need for 'temporary relief' programs.

Resurgence of state government autonomy in power struggle with federal government.

New Federalism and implications for rich and poor.

A.

Devolution and Anti-Government Sentiments

Blaming the victim, stigmatizing target populations, categorizing populations into dependency, developing a culture of welfare dependency.

Returning welfare, education, environmental policies to state and local control. Unanticipated winners and losers in the Affordable Care Act, Earned Income Tax Credit, Temporary Assistance to Needy Families, Job Training Partnership Act, Community Development Block Grants and related programs

Emerging Agenda for the 21st Century

Globalization of economic and political agendas

Maintaining social equity locally.

Continuing struggle for economic and political equity.

VIII. Instructional Methods

Describe the type(s) of method(s) that are required or recommended for the instruction of this course (lectures, demonstrations, etc.). Include any method that is essential to the course, such as the use of particular tools or software.

Instructional Methods*

Lectures/discussion with active student involvement. Students will select from a number of programs (e.g. Pell grants, Affordable Care Act, State Funding for Higher Education, etc.) and examine the political and economic interests served by the program in its design and implementation. They will analyze who wins and loses in terms of funding, opportunities for self-determination and control of resources. Students will present and answer questions from colleagues and faculty.

IX. Evaluation of Outcomes

Describe the methods to be used to evaluate students' learning, i.e. written exams, term papers, projects, participation, quizzes, attendance, etc.*

Grades will be a function of essay exams, class participation, project design, debate research paper, discussion and presentation. Students will provide periodic feedback on 'fuzzy' issues or concepts under discussion and on methods of analysis via 3X5 feedback cards. This will enable faculty to have an ongoing assessment of student's mastery of material and the range of critical approaches to evaluating policy proposals.

Describe the meaningful writing assignments to be included.*

Debate paper on current issue of economic and social policy. students will receive instructor feedback during the semester so that students may improve their writing.

Discuss how these methods may be used to address the course and program outcomes, as appropriate. Include or attach a matrix to align the evaluation methods to the outcomes.*
