A special thanks to Heather Howska for kicking off our first meeting for the spring semester! Heather shared her non-traditional journey that led to her passion in supply chain. Heather shared her experience taking inventory counts of liquor from a sheet of paper and then adapting to excel which helped her efficiently handle waves of various product demand problems when working at a casino. With careful observations of special events occurring for a particular audience, it was Heather's mission to successfully supply these demand spikes resulting in higher sales and minimal inventory stock outs. The reputation acquired by mastering such skill created a reputation for Heather and encouraged her passion for supply chain. In her spare time, she is an ASCM mentor for students breaking into the field of supply chain.
